Ruminant Protein Declaration

Palm kernel expeller (PKE) as it is expelled from the palm kernel is free of protein derived from the tissue (including blood) of a ruminant, and all withholding periods have been observed. WSF PKE stores comply with the Biosecurity (Ruminant Protein) Regulations 1999.

Fit for Intended Purpose

Palm kernel expeller (PKE) supplied by WSF is fully compliant with Ministry for Primary Industries' import requirements. WSF adheres to all bio-security standards as prescribed by MPI. At time of writing, the governing standard is: <http://www.biosecurity.govt.nz/imports/plants/standards/bnz-pafp-imppt>.

It is further screened and magnetised before leaving store. It is fit for its intended purpose. It is suitable for feeding to lactating dairy animals.

Genetically Modified Organisms

To the best of our knowledge this PKE does not come from land upon which human effluent or municipal waste has been applied. As the Palm oil industry grows, we are aware that fertiliser is imported to growing nations to further promote the health of the Palm Oil Fruit Plantations. As such we cannot guarantee meal expelled from the kernel of this fruit to be GM free.

Traceability

WSF sources PKE from suppliers who are members of the RSPO. RSPO is working toward 100% certified sustainable PKE by 2020. This time-line is in line with the targets for palm oil. Supplier members of the RSPO must be working in line with RSPO guidelines and timeframes towards 100% sustainability. Full traceability of oil is part of this process. At this time, as a by-product such a standard does not exist for PKE.
